THE TURF CONGRESS.

It is reported that Mr. W. F. Schalte, President of the American Turf Congress, has called a special meeting of that body to convene in Covington, January 15. It is stated, or supposed, that the main purpose of the meeting is to adjust racing dates. If intelligence, moderation, conciliation and a real desire to promote the general prosperity of racing in the West prevails among the delegates, such a meeting can do a vast amount of good and is to be commended. It should be one of the functions of such a body as the American Turf Congress to apportion racing dates to its members. But as conditions now are it is a difficult matter to handle. The splendid consistency and unselfishness of the Washington Park Club, when in the famous World's Fair year it adhered to its regular twenty-five days of racing, despite the general expectation that it would give a meeting of forty, fifty or sixty days, should be the model for the clubs of today. With a kindred spirit animating the representatives of the clubs there would be no difficulty whatever about adjusting dates so that all the weaker clubs could have time for at least as long and as prosperous meetings as they gave eight or ten years ago. If, on the other hand, selfishness, cliquism and the grinding of private axes are, as has been intimated, likely to be prominent features of the meeting, it is quite possible that it will result in more harm than good.

MELBOURNE STUD HORSES.

A few years back Col. W. S. Barnes was deservedly one of the most prominent and popular turfmen of the West. He is one of the type of high class, honorable men whose participation in racing gives it credit and good standing in the eyes of the public. Since the Washington Park Club suspended racing he has been content to be known chiefly as a breeder, and has annually sent out from Melbourne Stud consignments of young equine blue bloods second in breeding and subsequent performance to none in the country. Last year he had a few horses in training, and according to Mr. S. B. Weems, he is inclined to extend his active racing operations this year and will probably increase his racing string considerably. As to some of the features at Melbourne Stud Farm, Mr. Weems says, in a letter to Morning Telegraph:

"The stallions are Jim Gore, one of the best sons of Hindoo; Prince of Monaco, by St. Blaise, who was a great race horse and seems destined to become a great sire, and the recent purchase, Rainbow, by Longfellow, who raced in the Morris colors and whose trial for the American Derby was one of the fastest ever made by a three-year-old in the east. There are fifteen yearlings on the farm, ten fillies and five colts and thirty-nine weanlings. The unusually large proportion of twenty-two of these latter are colts.

"Col. Barnes has some positive ideas of his own about breeding. One of these is that stock, to do well, should not be overcrowded. And so another year he intends to dispose of some of his mares and the balance he will divide up into three or four different lots and scatter them about on different farms. Last year he was forced into racing again in a small way through his inability to sell fillies that he desired to retain as broodmares. His best performers were the 3-year-old filly, The Lady in Blue, a prominent Futurity candidate in her year, by Himyar, out of British Blue Blood, by Bendigo, and the two-year-old, Lady Elite, by Order—Bonita Belle, the dam of Bean Ideal, and other winners. Lady Elite is a wonderfully neat, trim built mare. She was one of the very best two-year-old fillies in the west last season, in a year when many good ones were out, and at the latter end she was nearly, if not quite, as good as any of the colts. She is engaged in all the western Oaks, and, judging by her form and on her present appearance, it will take a decidedly good one among the fillies to beat her. She has speed and is game.

"Prince of Monaco, probably the very best son of St. Blaise, certainly the one showing most size, substance and power, and these all combined with great quality, is at the head of Melbourne stud. Prince of Monaco is a whole colored chestnut and a horse of extraordinary muscle and bone. His yearlings and weanlings resemble him in these particulars, and some of the yearlings are very likely to make a record for him as two-year-olds the coming season.

"The young Jim Gores at Melbourne are also promising. They are big bodied horses on short legs, and nearly all of them show quality. "Rainbow is a typical Longfellow, but with fine lines and more quality than the Longfellows usually have. He is a splendid specimen of the thoroughbred, although what he may accomplish at the stud is yet to be determined. Colonel Barnes, who is a good judge in breeding matters, is satisfied he will make a pronounced success as a sire.

"It is good odds that two or three of the yearlings at Melbourne will be heard from in the two-year-old stakes. Fancy Wood, brown filly, by Prince of Monaco—Sarah, by Tremont, and she out of Selina, the dam of Salvador, is a mare of extra fine quality. She is a muscular sort, and will only need to grow a trifle more to be an ideal type of the high class racing machine. She is royally bred and is patterned much like Lady Elite.

"Another filly, a bay, by Jim Gore—Lady Jack, by Hayden Edwards, is a smart, racy looking type, and one by Prince of Monaco, out of Gypsy Queen, was well tried. This is a mare of length, substance and quality, and if she races up to her trials she will come pretty nearly being in the stake class. The best filly of the lot may turn out to be the bay called Princess Lightfoot, by Prince of Monaco—Lightwood, by Elias Lawrence. This will make a big, lengthy mare and is full of quality. She was highly tried.

"Of the colts, a brown by Prince of Monaco—Minty Custer, by Springbok, and a chestnut, by Jim Gore—Bachante, by Buchanan, are the pick. Both are good ones. The Jim Gore is a big, upstanding colt, with length underneath, short coupled, with a good quarter and hind leg, and well built in every respect. This colt was tried well enough with weight up to be a stake horse.

"Col. Barnes is no mean judge of young stock. He was ridiculed for buying Sir Dixon as a yearling, and for selecting Raceland as a coming turf hero. Duke of Bourbon was another of his choices, and after having bred Handspring, he induced Mr. P. J. Dwyer to buy the colt at the Melbourne stud sale in New York. Last year he picked out another of his own breeding, Prince of Melbourne, and was not far from choosing a great race horse.

"Colonel Barnes says he will stake his reputation on this Jim Gore colt, and on size and racing quality the youngster certainly has enough about him to warrant this confidence. The brown Prince of Monaco is a beautifully turned colt, with enough length and power to be an extra good one if he runs up to his looks and to stable expectations.

"The weanlings show a good average of size and substance and are hardy looking. Four or five of the colts have undoubted individuality, and both on breeding and quality they ought to sell well. One, a bay by Hanover—Bonita Belle, is an exceptionally good youngster, having great size, substance and bone—a big, compact, powerfully built colt. He is the favorite of Colonel Barnes, and is so well thought of that it would require a fancy price to buy him. This colt is the result of a season to Hanover that was offered to be raffled for by Colonel Young in aid of the southern flood sufferers. Colonel Barnes won the season, and he named the colt Luck in Charity.

"A brown by Prince of Monaco—Sarah, is another good colt. He has length, is short coupled and possesses extra good driving power. The chestnut by Prince of Monaco—Middle March, is royally bred and a lengthy, racy looking colt.

"The bay, by Jim Gore—Bamboo, is typical of his sire, a big bodied, stout colt on short legs, prompt looking and a race horse, so far as quality goes. A chestnut, by St. George—Flo-rilla, by Alarm, is a rangy, long quartered colt with a splendid forearm. This colt has plenty of size and substance and is one of the best of the lot. The brown, by Prince of Monaco—Century, by Billet, is another of the gilt edged ones. He is a lengthy colt, broad over the top and with great driving power. The bay, by Prince of Monaco—White Vail, has extra good quarters, shoulder and forearm, and is well put together in every respect. This colt looks like he would certainly race. A bay by Jim Gore—Flying Rumor, is also racy looking, while a brown, by Jim Gore—Bagpipes, by Macbeth, is also a fine type with good quarters and shoulders and a speedy look about him. Colonel Barnes' colts are decidedly above the average, and they can hardly fail to impress buyers when they are taken up to be sold in June.

"Mrs. Barnes, who owns The Lady in Blue, as well as Lady Elite, has a very racy looking weanling filly in the chestnut by Jim Gore—Lady Jack, by Hayden Edwards. This filly will grow into a mare of good size and substance. She has range, is well muscled up and ought to race. A black by Jim Gore—Light-wood is a nice filly. She has not as much length as the Lady Jack filly, but is well put together.
A black by Jim Gore—Pettitola is a big-bodied mare, like her sire in this respect, and possesses great quality. Another Jim Gore—Briganza is an exceptional filly with size, evenness of build and quality all the way."
